Reagan Gets Presidential Notice

WASHINGTON (AP) — The suspicion is dawning on some moderate Republicans that conservative Gov. Ronald Reagan of California may be more than a favorite son candidate for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

Latest to acknowledge this is the Ripon Society, a mostly privately financed organization of young Republicans who class themselves as liberals.

The Ripon group says in its current "Forum" publication that "signs of a serious presidential bid by California Gov.

Ronald Reagan are multiplying quickly." It said he may become the favorite son of several Western states, in addition to entering presidential primaries.

Suggesting that Reagan might inherit Southern support if former Vice President Richard M. Nixon fails to make the nomination grade, the "Forum" added: "It is not unthinkable that a convention with more Southern delegates than the one which nominated Barry Goldwater would give its endorsement to the even more charismatic Reagan."

Reagan has said he will be a favorite son candidate in California but won't campaign outside the state. He will not, however, ask for removal of his name in states where there are free-for-all primaries, he has said.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower said when he met Reagan in Palm Springs, Calif., recently that the California governor is qualified for the nation's top job.

"There are a number of men who would make fine presidents in our party," Eisenhower said.

"Gov. Reagan is one of the men I admire most in the world."

Eisenhower went on to say that he and Reagan had discussed Vietnam. The governor has called for an all-out military effort.

Eisenhower's comment was: "I believe in winning wars or settling them as soon as we can on an honorable basis."

Nixon and Gov. George Romney of Michigan have national campaign organizations being formed for them. They have appeared with Reagan in Washington several times recently.

Reagan outshone Romney when both spoke at a Republican fund-raising dinner. But as the GOP speaker at the annual Gridiron Club dinner the California governor got only a passing grade.

What worries the moderates is that as a front runner in the popularity polls, Romney has lost some ground among Republicans who might be expected to support him by failing to take any firm stand on Vietnam and some other national issues.

Milk Assn. Sues NFO For Million

The milk strike called last Wednesday by the National Farmers Organization seemed static in the Upper Peninsula today but downstate there were reports of violence and legal action.

Michigan Milk Producers Association, which has contracts with most of the commercial producers of milk in the Upper Peninsula (330 of 440) and with about 90 per cent of those in all Michigan reported that its statewide supply was affected only 10 per cent by the strike and the proportion withheld in the Upper Peninsula was even less.

Hardest hit by the withholding as it started was Consolidated Dairies of Bennington with about a third of its normal supply not coming in, but with no hardship created by the withholding.

Norway With NFO

In the central Upper Peninsula Frigo Brothers Cheese Corp.'s foreign type cheese plant at Carney in Memphriscott County reported today that 10 or 11 of its suppliers in the Norway area were withholding and that this is the only concentrated area of NFO support in its supply picture.

The Carney plant is currently receiving 110,000 pounds of milk daily and having 8,000 pounds withheld, or less than 7 per cent of its normal supply. Some large suppliers who withheld for a day or two have resumed shipping. They reached the limit of their storage capacity and had to decide whether to dump or ship.

Lloyd Benson, manager of the plant, which is supplied by 270 dairy farmers in the U.P. and Wisconsin via 9 plant trucks, said that the supplier reaction had been friendly, even where there was withholding.

"We simply can't pay more for milk than people pay for cheese," said Benson. "Cheese is now at about the support price and if we had to pay more we would have to look up the plant."

Frigo is paying $3.90 per hundredweight for can delivery milk and 20 cents more for bulk tank milk. This is milk for manufacture, or Class 2 milk. Class 1 milk for bottling is being bought by Michigan Milk Producers Association at a blend (average) price in the U.P. of from $5.04 to $5.10 a hundredweight. The NFO has been asking $5 for milk for manufacture and $6.05 for milk for bottling.

Dairies supplying bottled milk and dairy products in the mid-Upper Peninsula reported no milk supply problem today but a few evidences of panic buying. Rapid River Cheese Co. said its milk supply was normal.

Violence Downstate

By The Associated Press

Sporadic violence, including gunfire, a poison threat and explosions believed caused by dynamite, was reported today as a national milk strike entered its fifth day in Michigan.

The Michigan Milk Producers Association filed a $1 million suit against the National Farmers Organization and its members for what it termed "vandalism and terror, stemming from the NFO milk withholding action."

The explosions rocked the homes of two farmers who are not members of the NFO, which is sponsoring the withholding action in 25 states.

No one was injured and damage was reported slight.

The NFO hopes to boost the price paid to farmers for milk. The current price is $5.50 per 100 pounds (46½ quarts), and the organization wants $6.50.

Gunshot Cases

Several gunshot cases have been reported since the milk strike began last Wednesday.

Many farmers have reported telephoned threats if they continue to deliver milk, and a poisoned milk threat also was being investigated.

Two explosions were reported in the Imlay City area about midnight Sunday. Bost were believed caused by sticks of dynamite thrown from a passing car.

As a protective measure, the MMPA started assigning two or three carloads of armers to accompany each milk tank truck as it made its rounds.

Attorneys for Glenn Lake of North Branch, MMPA president, filed the suit in Ingham County Circuit Court.

The MMPA also asked for a permanent injunction to restrain the NFO from interfering with the delivery and marketing of milk. The NFO will have 20 days to answer the complaint filed with Ingham County Circuit Judge Marvin J. Salmon.

Effect Disputed

Meanwhile, there were conflicting reports on the effectiveness of the withholding action.

"There absolutely is no shortage of milk or a possibility of a shortage," Lake claimed. "At least 90 per cent of normal milk deliveries are being made in the Great Lakes States."

The suit said the 8,500-member MMPA supplies a substantial portion of the fluid milk and milk products used by Michigan dairies.

The suit claimed there have been a number of specific cases of vandalism and terrorism.

Terrorism Charged

The suit cited these as cases where bullets have been fired into milk tanker trucks, midnight telephone calls have been made threatening and harassing members, forcible dumping of milk from milk tankers, running cars carrying MMPA members off a state highway and soliciting MMPA members to break their contract with the association.

Five farmers in the White Pigeon area of southwestern Michigan reported Sunday that approximately 750 gallons of their milk was contaminated overnight by oil poured into storage tanks.

State Police of the White Pigeon Post said the farmers told them they neither heard nor

Ethics Group's Dodd Report Is 'Weeks Away'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With its two misconduct cases temporarily simmering on back burners, Congress prepares to get out of the kitchen altogether for a 10-day Easter recess.

The exodus is scheduled to come Thursday after a shortened work week which is expected to produce little final action.

The Senate Ethics Committee may begin considering in private the open testimony it took last week on the case of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., who is accused of using campaign funds for private purposes.

Weeks Away

But Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., says it will be weeks before his committee makes its report to the Senate.

The House awaits results of Adam Clayton Powell's legal attack against his exclusion by the House. It was learned Saturday that about 150 House members have asked Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark to act with "due diligence and dispatch" on House findings of wrongdoings by Powell.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the Dodd case "will perhaps give me some further light on what ought to be included in the code of ethics" for senators.

The Ethics Committee is drafting such a code, but Javits said he would "introduce a bill for an interim code of ethics very soon."

Help For CIA

Bills are scheduled for introduction in both Houses today which would aim at helping finance openly overseas activities of organizations found recently to be getting help from the Central Intelligence Agency.

Congressmen also have before them the reiterated argument of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that antimissile systems cannot be effective.

Swallows Back At Capistrano

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP) — The swallows are back at Mission San Juan Capistrano for their 176th summer.

The birds arrived Sunday from their winter quarters in Argentina on the traditional day, St. Joseph Day, a Roman Catholic religious holiday.

Only once in 177 years did the swallows not appear, mission fathers say. About 80 years ago, they were two days late because of bad weather over the West Coast.

The swallows usually begin their flight back to their nesting quarters on Oct. 23.

Peace Try Marked By Ky's 'More War' Call

New Yank Division Hurls Back Reds

SAIGON (AP) — Swarms of Communist troops smashed Monday at two positions of the newest U.S. division in Vietnam and were hurled back with the loss of 279 counted dead.

The U.S. Command reported Cong attacked an armored bivouac of the U.S. 9th Division north of Saigon. But after heavy fighting and air and artillery attacks, the Reds reeled back, leaving 224 bodies for U.S. bulldozers to push into mass graves.

A dozen miles southwest of Saigon a Viet Cong outfit of unknown size attempted to overrun another outpost of the 9th and left 55 dead on the battlefield.

With the war in one of the fiercest periods of fighting this year, bitter struggles were reported up and down the country. Communist gunners in one area destroyed three helicopters and damaged 13. One U.S. plane was shot down in South Vietnam Monday, another was lost on Saturday and another went down over North Vietnam Sunday.

Military officials reported 29 Americans killed and 131 wounded in the past 24 hours.

Bomb Red Heartland?

U.S. Air Force and Navy planes kept up their new campaign against North Vietnam's industrial heartland, now in its second week Sunday they bombed two thermal power plants and the steel fabricating plant at Thai Nguyen and Viet Tri, 20 to 30 miles north of Hanoi. All had been hit before.

The 9th Infantry Division, which is the freshest in Vietnam, arriving only last December, covered itself with glory in its sharpest fighting yet.

One of its armored units of about 300 men bedded down Sunday night at the village of Bau Bang on bloody Route 13, some 31 miles north of Saigon, the scene of at least three attempted Viet Cong ambushes in the past 18 months.

Planes Join Fight

At midnight Red mortar fire began to fall and within minutes an estimated 1,000 to 2,000 Viet Cong were dashing in. Some were screaming "Americans die" and swirling around the encircled units in wild assaults which the GIs later compared to an Indian attack on a Western wagon train.

American warplanes streaked down by flarelight within an hour to plaster the assaulting Viet Cong with clusters of antipersonnel bombs. Another armored column plowed up the road to join the fight.

When the battered Viet Cong commander pulled his men back at dawn, their retreat was marked with foot-wide ribbons of blood.

The 9th Division battle near Rach Kien, south of Saigon, was the same thing on a smaller scale.

The two fights cost the 9th Division 15 dead and 79 wounded, U.S. spokesmen reported.

Field Booby Trapped

The heavy loss of helicopters came in Operation Junction City where U.S. infantrymen in the biggest sweep of the war are attempting to clear out a long-time Red stronghold along the Cambodian frontier.

Today's Chuckle

Football and baseball will never vanish from the scene. We've got to have something to separate the TV commercials.

A strong force was sent Sunday to a landing zone which had supposedly been cleared by a 400-round artillery barrage. Settling into the zone, the chopper force came under machine-gun fire, and the Communists detonated two artillery shells which had been wired as booby traps in the middle of the zone. In the melee, three choppers were destroyed, 13 damaged by bullets or shell fragments, eight soldiers were killed and nine were wounded.

"Enemy casualties are unknown," the U.S. communique added.

In the central highlands, where much of the recent fighting has centered, soldiers of the 1st Cavalry Airmobile Division were engaged Monday with a strong Red force 35 miles inland from the coastal city of Qui Nhon. The cavalymen lost two dead and 15 wounded but details of the fight were not known.

Far to the north, U.S. Marines operating just south of the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam lost four dead and 34 wounded Sunday in a mortar attack just at sundown.

LBJ On Guam Told Cong Is Escalating War

GUAM (AP) — President Johnson's avowed intent to focus his Guam conference on the works of peace clashed today into a call by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky for a sharp escalation of the Vietnam war.

Johnson also got a report from his own close advisers that the Communists are doing some escalating of their own.

At the first formal conference session, atop the highest hill on this damp tropical island, Ky in his opening public statement questioned time had not come for the United States to bomb Hanoi, block the harbor at Hai-

PRESIDENT JOHNSON met with Antonio B. Won Pat, Guam's elected but non-voting representative to the U.S. Congress at the White House before leaving for Guam. Won Pat said he brought greetings to the President from the people of Guam and added that the Guamanians are "very excited" over Johnson's weekend visit.

phong, and expand the war into Laos and Cambodia.

The public expressions of such questions made it apparent that Ky thinks the United States should do all those things. But both Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, meeting with newsmen after the session, emphasized repeatedly that there was no discussion of escalation. Rusk contended that Ky raised his questions only in the context that Hanoi is unwilling to seek peace.

Fighting More Intense

However, both McNamara and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, said Johnson was told that the fighting in South Vietnam is becoming more intense and the Communists are stepping up the tempo of their offensive operations.

McNamara said the chief executive's military advisers reported: "The tempo of the war has increased significantly in recent weeks but, despite this fact, they believe the trend of the war is in our favor."

He said the Communists are using new weapons — rockets and bigger mortars — and are making an unsuccessful effort "to seize the initiative."

"The enemy is by no means beaten," said the defense chief.

Supertanker Is Feared Doomed

LANDS END, England (AP) — Calm seas today increased the chances of hauling a leaking American supertanker from an offshore reef, and thousands of tons of its crude oil cargo floated away from British beaches and out into the open sea.

As salvage crews renewed their efforts following an Atlantic storm, coast guardmen said the prospects of refloating the 123,000-ton Torrey Canyon were still slim. A major worry was that the tanker, even if freed from the rocks, might break up and pour all its 120,000 tons of oil into the sea.

18 Mile Oil Spill

The Torrey Canyon is nearly 1,000 feet long, bigger than many ocean liners, and is believed the largest ship ever wrecked in British water in peacetime. It is owned by the Liberia-based Barracuda Tanker Corp., a subsidiary of the Union Oil Co. of California.

About a quarter of its cargo has already seeped through a hole in the tanker's hull and has formed an oil slick 18 miles long. The slick covers 70 square miles of water and is more than a foot deep in parts.

Miles of beaches in Cornwall and the Scilly Isles, as well as seaside resorts in Ireland and France had been endangered. Prime Minister Harold Wilson ordered a major navy operation to protect the beaches. Three ships sprayed the oil slick with thousands of tons of detergent, and naval officers said the oil appeared to be dispersing in some areas.

Sunday Effort Fails

Winds pushed the oil southward Sunday night, clear of the British coasts. But weathermen in London said it would be wrong to assume that the menace had passed.

The tanker grounded Saturday on Seven Stones Reef, west of Lands End, England's southwest tip. Two attempts to refloat it failed Sunday.

Thirty-two Italian crewmen left the Torrey Canyon Sunday but Capt. Pastrengo Rigotti stayed on his bridge in hope that the ship would be saved. Also on board were three crewmen and eight men from a Dutch salvage tug.

Kowalski Death Ends House Tie

DETROIT (AP) — The body of Joseph J. Kowalski, the House Democratic leader who died Saturday, lay in state today while leaders in both parties ponder the political implications of his passing.

Mary K. Hessel Dies Sunday In Chicago

Mary K. Hessel of 6806 Cranston, Chicago, died at 12 p.m. Sunday at Grant Hospital, Chicago. She had resided with her sister, Mrs. Carl Hayden and had been in failing health for many years.

Born April 30, 1886 in Escanaba she attended St. Clair College Sinsinatti, Iowa, where she studied music. She later became a registered nurse in Chicago.

She is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Carl (Eather) Hayden, Chicago, Mrs. William (Irma) Reed of Springfield, Ill., Miss Adele D. Hessel of Escanaba and several nieces and nephews.

Friends may call at the Alto Funeral Home from 4 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and the rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Funeral services will be conducted at 9 a.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Church with Rev. Jordan Telles officiating. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

California Man Discovers Way to Hold False Teeth

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — A new discovery called Acryline is big news. Users say it fits plates so beautifully they can't believe it. Acryline uses a startling new vacuum principle. It flows on plates and forms an air tight seal. Users say this feels akin to natural teeth. This wonderful feeling lasts six months before a new application is necessary. Acryline is available at West End Drug Store.

The shift could be of major significance in the coming weeks when the House will handle one of the major partisan issues of this legislative session — Gov. George Romney's tax bills.

The GOP already controls the Senate by a narrow margin. Republican control of the House, too, could allow Romney's proposals to squeeze through if party-line votes shape up.

Most political observers say that at this point party line votes seem likely on the tax bills.

Kowalski, 59, died of a brain hemorrhage he suffered Thursday during a Democratic leadership conference in his Lansing office.

A House member present when Kowalski was stricken said the former House Speaker (1965-66) slipped into unconsciousness almost immediately.

Kowalski never came out of the coma.

Elected in Detroit's 19th District, Kowalski had served in the House since 1948, winning 10 successive terms.

The death of Kowalski brought words of praise and respect for the lawmaker.

Romney called him dedicated public servant who "knew his cause and fought relentlessly for it."

Kowalski played a leading role in the Michigan labor movement, beginning in 1936 as an organizer in Indiana, Ohio and Michigan for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

In 1941, August (Gus) Scholle, then state president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, hired Kowalski to establish what is now thought to be one of the best workers' education programs in the country.

Kowalski's death could fight weaken the Democrats if a fight shapes up over who will succeed him as Democratic leader. Thus far, no single individual stands out as the obvious choice.

State's Timber Sales Aid Deer

By KENNETH S. LOWE
Jesley A. Lehmann, Escanaba, district forest supervisor for the Michigan Conservation Department, wondered just how much browse the department was providing for deer through the sale of forest products from state lands. So he picked up a pencil and started to figure it out.

He found that 111 timber cutting permits were issued between Dec. 1 and April 1 in his district, which covers Marquette, Delta and Menominee counties, the west half of Alger County and the southern two-thirds of Schoolcraft County. Those permits resulted in the cutting of 3,000 cords of cedar, a prime winter deer food.

The amount of browse created in cutting one cord of cedar should range between 400 and 800 pounds, Lehmann figured, or an average of 500 pounds per cord. This yields a total, then, of 1,500,000 pounds of cedar browse available in a single winter.

Assuming that five pounds of browse is required to feed one deer for one day, Lehmann found that the 3,000 cords of cedar would produce enough browse to provide 300,000 daily rations for deer.

Lots Of Browse
This sounds like a lot of browse, but actually it is only a small part of the total amount of browse produced. In addition to the 3,000 cords of cedar cut in Lehmann's district during fiscal 1965-66, there were 46,000 cords of other species. Some of this cordage was in spruce and balsam, which are poor deer foods, but some of it also was in aspen and hardwoods that make good browse. (All state cutting permits during the winter are on land located in or near deer yards.) And in addition to the activity on state land, cutting is done on federal and private land. So it would appear that plenty of browse is provided for deer in the Upper Peninsula, but this, of course, is not true. Deer already have died this winter as a result of starvation — the lack of browse. The trouble is that not all deer yards are located in areas that are being cut. Consequently, the deer have reached all the available browse in some of these yards and are becoming victims of starvation.

That is why organizations like the Republic Sportsman Club and the Munising-Alger Conservation Club are sending volunteer crews into deer yards and cutting browse that is out of reach of the deer. These efforts undoubtedly will pull some deer through the winter that might otherwise perish, but there are many yards in which deer will not be helped, and it is feared that a lot of deer will be lost in those areas this winter and spring.

Scouts Help In Promotion

The Escanaba Chamber of Commerce has 50,000 pieces of tourist and resort promotion materials ready for distribution today, thanks to the assistance of Boy Scouts of Troop 414. John Anzalone is their leader.

The Scouts met at the Chamber of Commerce for two Saturdays in completing their service project, said Walter Lewke, manager of the Chamber of Commerce. Lewke expressed appreciation to the boys for their assistance in "helping us inform people about the many vacation possibilities of this area."

"There are two pieces of promotion literature we distribute," said Lewke.

"One is a full color folder showing the many vacation activities offered by Escanaba, the capital of the Riviera of the North; and the other is a directory of the business places serving the public in this area."

This informational material is distributed in a number of ways: At sports and travel shows held in Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee and elsewhere in the Midwest; to the State Highway Department for its information centers; and in reply to individual inquiries.

Chambers of Commerce in other communities, Auto Clubs and other agencies serving the public also receive supplies of the folders that help direct attention to the Escanaba area.

Leap Is Fatal

DETROIT (AP) — Dr. David Vigor, 41, a physician, leaped to his death from the 14th floor of Detroit's downtown Kales Building Saturday.

His wife, Dorothy, and a psychiatrist, Dr. Arthur J. Pearce, were in Pearce's office when Vigor suddenly leaped through a half-open window and plummeted to the sidewalk.

Mrs. Vigor said her husband had undergone treatment for several years because of anxiety about his children and job. He was employed in the Chrysler Corp. medical department.

A. T. Sohlberg, 87, Dies Today

A. Theodore Sohlberg of Brampton, one of Delta County's most respected senior citizens, died at 5 a.m. today in St. Francis Hospital where he had been a patient for the past eight days. He was 87 years old.

He was justice of the peace at Gladstone for a number of years, was an officer of the Bark River National Farm Loan Association, and was secretary-treasurer of the Baynoc Farm Loan Association until 1949, when he resigned to reenter the Baynoc Insurance Agency.

Born on July 4, 1879, in Cumming County, Neb., he spent his early years in Nebraska before coming to Michigan. He was employed as a farm laborer, school teacher, insurance agent, and as associate editor of the "Swedish Element in America," published in 1938.

Mr. Sohlberg and Hanna M. Hedlund of Bark River were married in 1908. She died in 1951.

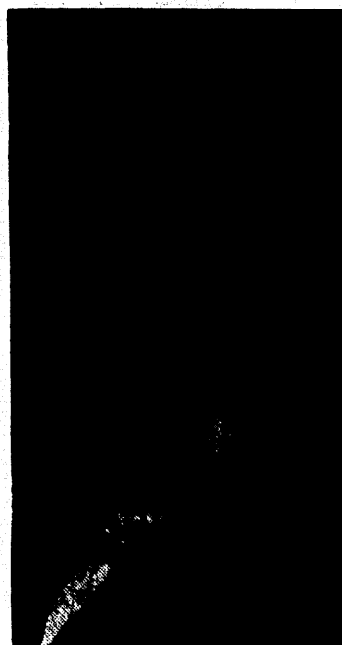

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Arthur (Helen) Laughbaum of Gladstone and Mrs. Arthur (Dorothea) Carlson of Rockford, Ill.; one brother, Joseph Sohlberg of Tacoma, Wash.; six grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

He was a member and past president of the Swedish Club of Gladstone, was a past president of the Gladstone Rotary Club, and was among the founders and was a past president of the Delta County Historical Society, which recognized him with an honorary membership for his services to that organization.

For a time he edited the Delta Reporter at Gladstone, and his poems (largely reflections on pioneer life) were published in 1938 as "Bits of Home-made Verse." These were praised by Carl Sandburg, Chase S. Osburn and others.

He was a member of the Mission Covenant Church of Gladstone and was formerly its trustee and Sunday School superintendent. He wrote a history of the church also.

Many interests and hobbies occupied his attention including farming at Sohlbergs Farm at Brampton.

The Anderson-Johns Funeral Home is in charge of the funeral arrangements, which have been set for Thursday at the Evangelical Covenant Church, with burial in the Bark River Cemetery.

State Approves Rate Reduction By Edison Sault

LANSING (AP) — The State Public Service Commission has approved a rate reduction by the Edison Sault Electric Co. that will mean an annual saving of $93,000 to electrical customers in the Upper Peninsula counties of Chippewa, Mackinac and Schoolcraft.

The reduction eliminates rate differences between Sault Ste. Marie and other users throughout the service area.

The commission said residential rates for power over 250 kilowatts a month will be reduced for all users and will result in savings to customers as follows:

Sault Ste. Marie, $3,600; Manistique, $13,700; St. Ignace, $6,900; Mackinac Island, $700, and other rural areas, $12,800.

The general service rate, now applying to commercial customers in Sault Ste. Marie, will be available throughout the service area and will result in reductions as follows: Manistique, $18,800; St. Ignace, $15,000; Mackinac Island, $4,500, and other rural areas, $17,300.

Peter Spivak, commission chairman, said rates for electric service in the various areas serviced by Edison Sault were developed as existing electric systems were acquired. This resulted in a variation of rates, he said, which since are being adjusted.

The company announced that the reduction will take effect with its May 1 billing date.

Harold O. Polian, chairman of the Board of Directors, said the reduction is similar to a $71,000 reduction given Jan. 1, 1966.

In a prepared statement, Polian said the company's ability to affect these reductions was primarily attributed to the company's acquisition in 1963 and conversion of the Carbide Power Co.'s Hydro-Electric plant at Sault Ste. Marie.

Acquisition of this primary generating station provided the company with capacity to serve new industry in the eastern Upper Peninsula and to furnish service to residential and commercial customers at reduced rates.

Held In Slaying

DETROIT (AP) — A 33-year-old man was in jail today for investigation of the shooting of Mrs. Evelyn Calhoun, 31, who was slain during a party at her house Saturday.

Officers said Dan Watson of Detroit was detained for questioning.

Two other persons at the party received gunshot wounds in the legs.

Mr. Carlson was a member of the Zion Lutheran Church and the Indian Lake Country Club and a life member of the Knights of Pythias.

Surviving are his widow; two daughters, Mrs. William (Jean) Corson of Western Springs, Ill., and Mrs. Ramon (Louise) Roussin of Muskegon; four sisters, Mrs. Matt Strom, Mrs. Basil Dehut and Miss Mary Carlson of Manistique and Mrs. Dale Drum of Washington, Ill.; two brothers, Carl L. and James of Manistique and four grandchildren.

Friends may call at the Kefauver and Jackson Funeral Home from 3 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Zion Lutheran Church with Rev. Ingmar Levin officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery. Elks services will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday and Masonic services at 8 p.m.

UPCAP's Future

As the states of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Michigan move to implement a regional planning agency authorized by Congress — our own Appalachia-type organization — UPCAP comes under scrutiny that may have a strong influence on its future.

The three lake states involved plan to incorporate the Upper Great Lakes Regional Development Commission next month and to start its action program to upgrade the economy in 119 economically slow counties. They include all 15 counties in the Upper Peninsula and 30 in the top of the Lower Peninsula above the Muskegon-Bay City line and 36 in Northern Wisconsin.

The Upper Great Lakes Commission is one of a half dozen created by Congress last year to coordinate economic planning so that problems can be dealt with under federal financing on a regional, rather than state basis. Appalachia had problems of poverty which pervaded the whole area and the government is undertaking to deal with them on a broad front instead of by piecemeal and state-by-state.

The same approach is envisioned in the Northern Lake States. Minnesota and Michigan both are important iron producers, all three are heavily dependent upon wood industries, they are all agricultural states; they are all on the Great Lakes and eligible for the benefits of a restored lakes fishery, they are all importantly involved in recreational business. And all three have the same problems of rural poverty, of the draining away of populations from small northern farms to big city jobs to the south.

Governor Romney said in Washington recently that he would urge first emphasis in the commission's planning on improved transportation in the Upper Peninsula. "It's perfectly obvious that we need a better highway system in the Upper Peninsula," Romney said. "Economic development follows the adequacy of transportation, particularly in areas dependent on recreation and tourism."

Wisconsin's Gov. Warren Knowles, who is Wisconsin's state co-chairman of the commission like Romney is Michigan's, wants economic development plans to stress water resources, forest and mining development and growth of recreation facilities. The states plan to finish their problems study by July 1 and to develop the key issues to be handled on a regional basis by Nov. 1. Thomas Francis, the federal co-chairman of the commission, said the three state's coordinated plan and request for federal funds to finance a program would go to Congress by Jan. 1, 1968.

Governors Romney, Knowles and Harold LeVander of Minnesota all are displeased by the pokiness of federal action. "We've had lots of studies, lots of recommendations and planning, but no action," said Romney. "Our desire is to get things moving."

Francis sent a representative to the Upper Peninsula last week to inspect UPCAP's usefulness as an agency in the Upper Great Lakes Commission program. UPCAP has served federal agencies in the economic opportunity program for years, giving technical assistance in applying the federal on-the-job training programs, Head Start, small loan counseling, etc., in the U. P.

The Great Lakes program would seem to be an opportunity for UPCAP to make its skills available to the new agency and to prolong its own future under what may be a threat of being supplanted in part by a new federal-state agency.

The inquiry by Francis about UPCAP may be crucial to its future. It comes at a time when the agency is seeking a new executive director and when Washington is doing some double-takes on the War on Poverty program because 1968, election year, will bring a campaign accounting of expenditures and results.

Lottery Complexity

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There's discussion of a lottery for selecting men for military service.

The first lottery of the World War II period was October 20, 1940. Each Selective Service local board shuffled its registration cards, then assigned each a serial or sequence number—1, 2, 3, . . .

Each local board then informed its state headquarters of the highest number it had assigned a registrant. This information was used by national headquarters to determine what numbers to include in the national lottery.

Then single numbers in capsules were brought from a U. S. Treasury vault, where they had been kept under guard.

The capsules were deposited in the "goldfish bowl" used in 1917. They were drawn, one at a time, by prominent officials and others.

Microfilm cameras recorded the sequence in which the numbers were selected. Another camera photographed sheets to which the serial numbers were attached as drawn.

The film was used to prepare plates for printing the official master list supplied local boards.

Using this national master list, local boards assigned each registrant an order number. The man whose serial number appeared nearest the top of the master list received order No. 1. He then became the first man to be classified by his local board as to liability for military service.

The second national lottery, July 17, 1941, applied to men who had turned 21 since the first registration. The new registrants were integrated with those of the first lottery as follows:

The order number of the last man inducted by a local board from the first registration (the "key number") was subtracted from the highest order number assigned under that registration prior to July 8, 1941. The remainder was divided by the largest sequence number given to a new registrant prior to midnight July 8.

This quotient was used to integrate the new registrants with the old. That is, assume a local board "key number" was 1,740. Assume also the largest order number assigned in the first registration was 4,329 and that 216 was the largest sequence number given registrants of the second registration. Subtracting 1,740 from 4,329 would leave 2,589. Dividing 2,589 by 216 would give 11.95 or 12. Twelve would be the quotient.

The new registrant assigned sequence order No. 1 as a result of the second national lottery would become No. 13 on the combined list (the integrated list which included registrants assigned order numbers in the first lottery.) The next second-lottery man in order would become No. 26, and so on.

The third national lottery was held March 17, 1942, for men of the third group to register. A third national master camera photographed sheets to which the serial numbers were attached as drawn.

The film was used to prepare plates for printing the official master list supplied local boards.

Using this national master list, local boards assigned each registrant an order number. The man whose serial number appeared nearest the top of the master list received order No. 1. He then became the first man to be classified by his local board as to liability for military service.

The second national lottery, July 17, 1941, applied to men who had turned 21 since the first registration. The new registrants were integrated with those of the first lottery as follows:

The order number of the last man inducted by a local board from the first registration (the "key number") was subtracted from the highest order number assigned under that registration prior to July 8, 1941. The remainder was divided by the largest sequence number given to a new registrant prior to midnight July 8.

Worthington of United States Steel Corp. examines a model of the world's second largest high rise office building which the corporation will build in Pittsburgh to serve as its headquarters. It will be 64 stories high, triangular shaped and exposed steel columns standing several feet from the walls will be the skeleton of the building, worn unconventionally on the outside and not the inside. It will be completed in 1970 and will be the tallest (841 feet) skyscraper in the world outside of New York and Chicago.

CONSULAR TREATY
The Consular Treaty—which could not go into effect without Senate ratification—is one of those international house-keeping documents that would be dismissed as routine if the other signer were not Russia. (The U. S. Senate ratified the treaty March 16.)

It merely sets conditions under which Russia could open one consulate in this country for every consulate we are allowed to open in Russia.

The treaty, however, seems to be generating the same jittery nervousness among some citizens and senators that accompanies every proposed agreement that we may have with the Soviet Union.

The feeling seems to be that by even talking to Russians we are exposing ourselves to some sinister plot that we cannot at the moment fathom or understand.

My mail runs about 30-tones against the treaty and much of it assumes the same tone used by the opponents of the Test Ban Treaty of 1964:

Questions And Answers

Q—What famous English explorer wrote a history of the world while imprisoned in the Tower of London?
A—Sir Walter Raleigh.

Q—What is the only metal which remains liquid at ordinary temperatures?
A—Mercury.

The Russians are untrustworthy, and sending our government to deal with them is like sending Orphan Annie in to deal with Fu Manchu—the innocent are bound to be somehow tricked and corrupted.

There seems to be an abundance of misinformation on the function of a consular office. Opponents tend to picture them as potential headquarters for Russian spies while State Department documents paint them as the guardians of travelers in trouble.

A consulate has a number of functions. One important role is to help tourists out of whatever difficulties they may find themselves in. They also may spot trade opportunities, expedite export agreements, provide speakers for local groups and promote cultural exchanges.

Consulates also provide important listening posts. Our consuls overseas are expected to report political trends, public opinion trends, commercial activities and industrial innovations.

British, French and German consulates in Detroit, for example, have the assignment of watching the auto industry and reporting any trends or model changes that may affect the auto export business in the home country.

BARBS

If consulates serve as listening posts, let's pose the question this way:

If a closed society exchanges listening posts with an open society, which nation gets the better deal?

By allowing Russia a consulate in say, Chicago, we are in effect letting the Russians in on a fish bowl for a closer look at what they could just as well have seen from the outside.

But an American consul in, say, Kharkov, would be a torchbearer lowered into a previously forbidden vault.

Would a Russian consulate here serve as a center for military espionage? There are all-ready some 700 accredited Soviet diplomats in this country and it does not seem that the addition of 10 or 15 more in any consulate would strain the effectiveness of the FBI.

This is not a large step toward better relations with Russia but any step we make in that direction is a significant one.

SAUCERS

I have noticed the increase in reports of U. F. O.'s (unidentified flying objects) in your newspaper. Not only do I realize the increase of sightings but the fact that people in Delta and Schoolcraft counties have also seen some, so I thought you may want to hear about this.

Feb. 20, my mother and myself, plus a friend, sighted a U. F. O. at 8 a. m. that morning. We reported it to the Manistique State Police who were very cooperative and told us that the Gulliver Post had also seen the object. The sergeant said to report any additional sightings.

At 8 p. m., twelve hours later, I, my friend Deborah Graff and her parents sighted the object about 500 feet high and 300 yards away. The object appeared as a saucer or guitar pick shaped about 50 feet long and 12 feet thick. It was flashing red lights and when I shouted, a whole row of white lights flashed on and pulsed in a 1-2-3-4-5, 5-4-3-2-1 order. The outer body of the saucer was silverish-gold. Through binoculars it looked like this.

Then on March 6-7, five more saucers were sighted, one of which I saw, March 6. Manistique had a power failure. During this failure, 3 saucers were sighted near power lines.

March 7, 4:15 p. m., two gold colored saucers flew over our house. My friend, Mark Fish, took a picture of both saucers.

In his first Blue Book, the late Ely Culbertson described the forcing two bid with the negative two no-trump response.

While Ely did not invent this bid (actually it was invented by Oswald Jacoby and Waldemar von Zedtwitz with a lot of help from Ted Lightner), he did make it an integral part of the Culbertson system and the bid is still used by practically all the bridge-playing public.

There is one small group which does not use it. That group is composed of the top players. These top players use two clubs as their strongest forcing bid and play the others either as specialized strong bids or weak bids.

The two club bid has three distinct advantages over regular two bids. It eliminates the negative two no-trump response so that the weak hand does not become the no-trump declarer. It releases the other two bids for other purposes and on many occasions it keeps the bidding lower.

Today's hand illustrates this third advantage. South is able to bid his hearts three times without going past four hearts. He has a sound positive response but is afraid of a misfit.

After South's third bid of hearts, North realizes that his ace is sufficient heart support and goes into Blackwood. Of course, South shows no aces but North's five no-trump not only asks for kings but also guarantees the four aces.

South's bid of seven hearts is based on this knowledge plus the fact that he is sure that his king of clubs will be a very valuable card.

If North had opened with two spades the partnership might still reach the grand slam. However, they would lose one early round of bidding because South would be responding at the three level.

'Pill' Works When Doctor's In Charge

Dear Ann Landers: We at Planned Parenthood are deeply concerned about the comment you made to the 16-year-old high school girl whose friend was having pre-marital relations with her steady. It seems the girl asked her friend what she would do if she became pregnant. Her friend laughed and replied "The pill never fails."

You said, and I quote: "I have received letters from other teen-age girls who also laughed and said, 'The pill never fails.' They stopped laughing when the doctor said, 'You are pregnant.'"

It is one thing to counsel a young girl against pre-marital sex. It is quite another thing to undermine the confidence that millions of women have in a well-proven contraceptive.

You strongly implied in your reply that the pill frequently fails to give contraceptive protection. I am sure you know, Ann Landers, that the pill is practically 100% effective when taken properly.

Many anxiety-ridden women will find their faith in the pill shattered by your statement. Planned Parenthood Centers around the country are sure to be bombarded by calls as a result of your comment. We sincerely hope you will say something to correct this unhappy impression. — REV. DON C. SHAW, PLANNED PARENTHOOD, CHICAGO

Dear Rev. Shaw: I, too, have been bombarded with letters and calls — from Planned Parenthood members all over the country — And I'd like to set the record straight.

I am NOT opposed to married couples deliberately controlling the size of their families. I encourage birth control when it is not in conflict with religious training. And it is heartening to note that the outmoded concept that a woman has the moral obligation to produce as many children as "God sends her" has been abandoned by many contemporary religious leaders whose predecessors felt otherwise. My personal belief is that birth control is the only answer to the population explosion.

Your statement that the pill is practically 100% effective when taken properly is correct. And this is the point I wish to emphasize. The proper way to take the pill is under the supervision of a physician. You can be sure that the teen-agers who are taking the pill are not doing so under a physician's instruction.

Some teen-agers and adults as well, are under the impression that the pill taken just before they go out will prevent conception for 24 hours. They are the ones who get pregnant. Moreover, the pill is not for everyone. In some instances the pill has produced serious side effects. This fact has been pointed out repeatedly by Dr. James L. Goddard, Commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration. Women with a history of tumors or clotting might be well advised to use other contraceptive devices. The decision should be made by a physician.

Giving advice is an awesome responsibility and I do not take it lightly. I have an obligation to my readers to make certain the counsel I give is correct. I would be failing my readers miserably if I did not alert them to the facts about the pill, and the facts are as I have stated them.

When necking becomes petting, watch out! To learn how the smart girl keeps both her dignity and her boy friend, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 25c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

SIX SNOWMOBILES, four on the trailer and two in the back of the pickup truck, were brought to Gladstone Sunday by a racing team from Oconto Falls, Wis., as the first program of races sponsored by the Gladstone Yacht Club drew entries from all over the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin. (Daily Press photo).

PART OF THE CROWD estimated to be more than 1,000 persons gathered around some of the snowmobiles and drivers which competed in the race program Sunday at Gladstone. "Shop talk" amid drivers and snowmobile enthusiasts was common in the wintry "gasoline alley." (Daily Press photo)

Over 1,000 Spectators See Snowmobiles Race

It was a wonderful day for snowmobiling Sunday and more than 1,000 spectators turned out at the Gladstone Yacht Club to watch the first of what is expected to be an annual program of racing sponsored by the Gladstone Yacht Club.

A total of 78 machines of all types were entered in the competition over a combined oval, obstacle and cross country course on Little Bay de Noc, Van Cleve Park and Stonington.

Fastest time of the day was turned in by Dan Koski of Ne-gaunee, who won the unlimited class event in 16 minutes, 3 seconds.

The course included five laps over an oval on the east of the Yacht Club, a run through an obstacle layout in the park, and the cross-country sprint south on Little Bay de Noc, across the bay to Stonington, through the woods to Twin Springs Park and then back to the checkered flag at the finish line.

Entries came from all over the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin. There were seven classes of competition for men and the Ladies Powder Puff derby, which was five laps around the oval course.

The program was an effort by the Yacht Club sponsors to "get their feet wet" in snowmobile race promotion. It is hoped that the races can become an annual event. Prize winners in the races were announced by Ray Bero, commodore of the Yacht Club. They were:

Class A Unlimited (over 400 cc): 1, Dan Koski, Neegaunee, 18:03.

Class B Modified (300-400 cc): 1, Ray Knauf, Newberry, 18:20.

Class C Modified (0-300 cc): 1, Bill Malmstrom, Menominee, 17:47.

Class D Stock (321-400 cc): 1, Larry Jack, Germfask, 18:35; 2, Paul Smith, Marquette, 18:48; 3, Wally Thoren, Stonington, 18:10.

Class C Stock (276-320 cc): 1, William Mattson, Neegaunee, 18:45; 2, Bob Heynness, Gladstone, 20:15; 3, Thomas Warren, Ishpeming, 20:18.

Class B Stock (200-275 cc): 1, Herb Burton, Germfask, 21:57; 2, Mike Bettis, Green Bay, Wis., 22:03; 3, Paul Smith, Marquette, 22:05.

Class A Stock (0-199 cc): 1, Bobby VanDamme, St. Nicholas, 24:45.

Ladies Powder Puff: 1, Gail Reinhold, Sayner, Wis., 2:42.

Largest entries came in the stock classes B and C. Class B engine ratings took machines of about 10 1/2 horsepower and Class C took machines of about 14 1/2 horsepower, the two most popular sizes for snowmobiles.

Artist To Share Views On Rome

Ulrico Schettini, Italian artist of international reputation, has arrived in Escanaba for an art symposium.

Students of Bay de Noc Community College will have the opportunity to observe, discuss and enjoy Schettini's work in both casual and formal art sessions throughout this week. During his stay on campus, he will paint a mural indicative of Bay de Noc college life as interpreted in his own style.

Tuesday at 8:00 p.m. in the Student Center of Bay de Noc Community College, the public is invited to join students and faculty for a discussion of Schettini's impression of Rome. There will be no admission charge.

The presentation of "Rome Through the Centuries" will be illustrated with color slides.

Schettini has his studios and residence in London. Each year he travels to extend his experience with people. He comes to Escanaba via Portland, Oregon, and San Francisco, where he has visited numerous college campuses.

His tour has been planned by the Arts Program of the Association of American Colleges.

Thieves Enter Church, Schools

A church and two schools were entered sometime over the weekend by thieves who caused malicious damage by throwing food and bottles around the buildings, Escanaba police reported today.

All of the breakings and enterings were discovered and reported to police this morning. St. Joseph's Church was entered by intruders who descended into a window well and then broke the window to gain entry to the basement. There they ransacked the basement and broke bottles on the floor.

Matches were scattered throughout the basement. The Escanaba Area Public High School cafeteria at the rear of the Junior High School was entered through a window and food was taken from the refrigerator. Much of the contents of the refrigerator were scattered around the room.

St. Patrick's School was also broken into in what police believes are "related" acts, and there two dozen eggs from the kitchen were thrown about.

Milk Assn. Sues NFO For Million

One of the five whose milk was ruined was quoted by police as identifying himself as an NFO member.

Don Myers, information director for the Michigan Milk Producers Association, said five milk tank trucks have been punctured by bullets since Friday night.

Bullets hit the trucks at Rosebush, Capac, Sandusky, Swartz Creek and Pontiac, Myers said.

The gunshots follow reports earlier last week that a milk truck was sabotaged near Saginaw and another was hijacked and its 5,000 gallons of milk dumped into the ground near Flint.

No one has been injured in any of the incidents.

Charles King of Owosso, an NFO spokesman, said there was no reason to blame the NFO for the vandalism and shooting incidents.

"It may be the acts of people who sympathize with us, but there's no indication that NFO members are involved," he said.

Claim Success King also said that milk holdouts was having the effect NFO members wanted.

"Things seem to be turning our way as more and more farmers are holding up their milk," he said. "We know that the smaller dairies are short of milk and the bigger ones must be feeling the pinch."

In Detroit and other cities around Michigan, however, dairies reported ample supplies of milk.

Glenn Lake, president of the MMPA, also said that Michigan milk deliveries were only 10 per cent below normal as a result of the NFO action.

Lake, of North Branch, called the withholding action "folly and a tragic waste of farmers' money."

But Ray Auville of rural Snow-er in Sanilac County, the Michigan NFO marketing coordinator, defended the action, saying, "The time has now come when the farmer should say: Here is what I have to sell and this is my price."

"No one gets as little as the dairy farmer for his work," Auville said. "If we have to create a shortage to prove how great a need there is for year-to-year contracts, we'll do it."

Detroit Starts Monthly Kennedy Clan Newsletter

DETROIT (AP) — Interest in the family of the late President John F. Kennedy has prompted a Detroit businessman to start publishing a monthly newsletter digesting the family's activities.

Frank H. Gille, president of American Data Processing, Inc., said the letter, which he would begin publishing in Detroit next month was prompted because the "Kennedy phenomenon" has become an important factor in American life.

The late John F. Kennedy and members of his family have even influenced our men's and women's fashion, and not one yet has attempted to correlate the great variety of available material," he said.

Gille said the 12-page letter would review the month's activities of all the prominent members of the family and would also carry original views on matters of special significance.

Cliffs Reports Big 1966 Gains

Cleveland Cliffs Iron Co. spent a record $25.3 million in capital expenditures in 1966, more than double the amount spent in 1965.

President Stuart Harrison said 1966 was a year of record earnings, $15.4 million, of $6.84 per share of common; with the Empire mine expansion completed in December; the Pioneer Pellet Plant exceeding expectations in both capacity and profit margins and the Company's organization strengthened through personnel changes.

Construction proceeded at the Sherman Mine in Canada. This pellet property is scheduled to come in to production toward the end of 1967. When it is on stream, total pellet capacity of the properties Cliffs manages will be approximately 10 million tons annually.

The company is continuing its work on its Robe River iron ore project in Western Australia and its shale oil venture in Colorado with Sohio and Tosco.

Cliffs' Great Lakes fleet carried 5,792,000 tons of iron ore, coal and grain compared with 5,145,000 tons in 1965. This achievement can be attributed to improved loading techniques, a longer shipping season and deeper river and harbor channels. Three vessels were equipped with automatic boiler and burner controls. Five of Cliffs' eight vessels now have automatic boiler and burner controls while seven are equipped with bow thrusters.

In the year ahead, Harrison expects to see at least a slow down in the rate of the expanding economy and probably decrease in production. This would be reflected in lower steel production and lower consumption of iron ore. Added to this is the fact that considerable new pellet production will be coming in during the year. The slackening of the boom at a time of increased supply will present a challenge which he believes Cliffs is in a good position to meet.

Fifty-eight per cent of the plywood produced in the United States comes from Oregon, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Judge Nullifies School's Ruling Against Long Hair

CADILLAC (AP) — His long hair notwithstanding, 16-year-old Jeff Matlack can return to Cadillac Junior High School. He has a court order in his favor.

Circuit Judge William R. Peterson has held that Jeff, suspended March 8 by Principal William Smith, must be permitted to return to school.

Peterson ruled for Jeff because the Cadillac Board of Education bylaws say nothing to forbid his attendance because of long hair.

Jeff, with his full head of blond strands and long sideburns, was present in court for the verdict.

Friends of Jeff from the Prate dance band, a mod-music group to which he belongs, brought the lawsuit for him.

A Prate representative, appearing as a witness, testified the group has no long hair requirement and that Jeff acted on his own in avoiding the barber shop.

Pressure Drive Fumbles

Student Lets Cat Out

The curiosity of a 13-year-old Battle Creek girl has confounded a campaign by Latin and Greek teachers who tried to use their students as lobbyists for federal aid.

The girl, Connie Mileski, a ninth grader at St. Philip High School in Battle Creek, carefully penned a letter last month to Sen. Robert P. Griffin, (R-Mich.).

"I am a student of the classics here in Michigan," it began. "We are urging you to consider a certain revision in the National Defense Educational Act . . . to make provision for the classical language as well as the modern, thus providing quality education for all."

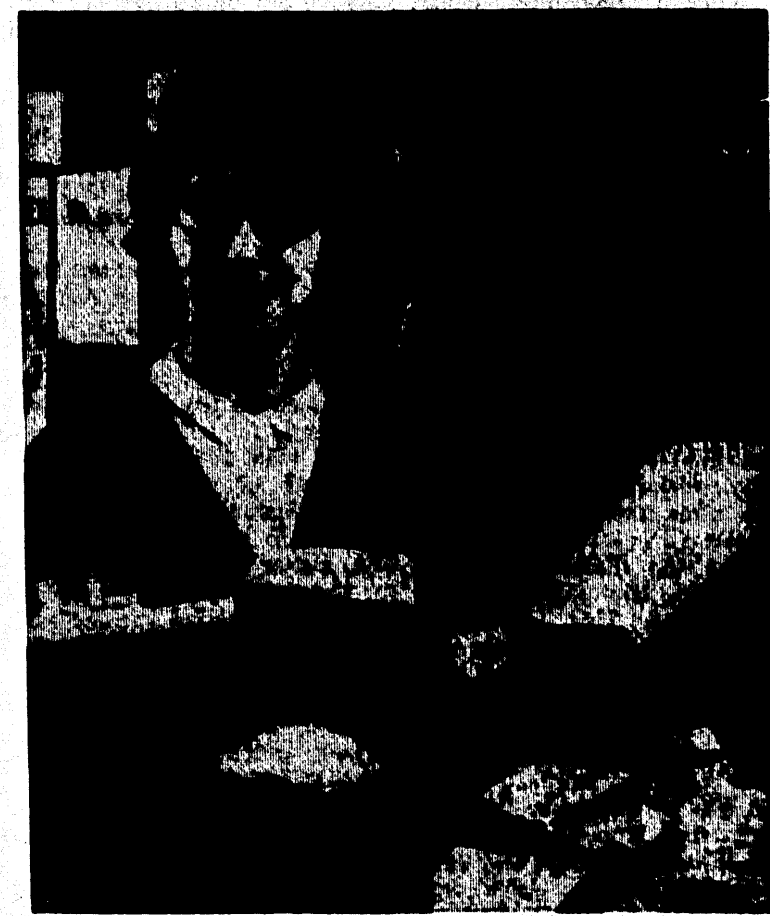

"We here in Michigan have many people studying the classics and hope you are aware of this lacking discrepancy . . . Please ask your colleagues to be mindful of this inequity, when the revision of the act is to be considered."

The language was typical of the generated mail Griffin has been getting from teachers of classical languages who want a portion of the funds now granted to teachers of modern languages.

But Griffin was struck by a postscript to Connie's letter.

"Would you please explain to me what this letter is about, because I don't understand what a lot of this means," Connie wrote.

"The preceding letter was placed on the blackboard by my Latin teacher who told us simply to 'write this letter to Senator Griffin or Senator (Philip A.) Hart if you could care to keep the classics alive.' 'I suppose it means something about taking Latin out of required high school languages, and personally, I'm all in favor of it, if that's what it's about. You, with your busy schedule, probably don't want a kid like me bothering you with a lot of silly questions . . ."

Griffin wrote Connie that he was "particularly glad to read your thoughtful and revealing postscript." And he added: "I commend you for your candor and your willingness to question the assignment."

Connie's mother, Mrs. Bart Mileski, said there was some embarrassment and consternation among school faculty members when her daughter innocently displayed Griffin's reply and told them of her postscript.

Sister Joyce, mother superior at the school, asked that the name of Connie's Latin teacher not be used, and took responsibility for the letter-writing suggestion.

"The teacher showed a sample of the communication to me and I approved encouraging the children to write," Sister Joyce said. "The teacher read an explanation to them and asked them to write:

But it was not obligatory." She said she assumed that most of the children wrote the letter. Apparently, only Connie added the postscript.

"When I heard about the postscript," said Mrs. Mileski, "I figured the fat's in the fire now. I don't think Sister Joyce approved. But what can you do? Connie has a mind of her own."

Griffin added a postscript of his own to his letter to Connie.

"I suspect that I could become very popular among ninth graders if I were to sponsor legislation to remove Latin altogether from the list of high school subjects. However, I can assure you—as one who studied Latin for two years—that it will prove very valuable as you continue your academic career."

New Process To Save Trout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Development of a new cheap chemical process to treat sewage may save Michigan's Au Sable River for trout fishermen.

The new process was explained this week at the 32nd annual North American Wildlife and Natural Resource Conference in San Francisco by an official of Trout Unlimited.

Alven Macauley of Detroit, chairman of the group's pollution committee, said the Dow Chemical Co. of Midland, Mich., has developed a process "which will eliminate 70 to 95 per cent of phosphate in sewage effluents."

Treated sewage from the town of Grayling has been a threat to the future of the river, long rated as one of the best trout streams in the country.

Effluents have greatly overfertilized the river, resulting in heavy growth of aquatic weeds and algae in the summer months.

One official has warned the overgrowth of vegetation and the mucky deposits which develop when it dies could mean the end to the Au Sable as a trout and canoeing stream in five to 10 years.

Macauley said installation of a pilot program using the new chemical process will start within 60 days at Grayling to test its efficiency.

Theresa, Rescued From Well, Now Has A New Doll

VOTAW, Tex. (AP) — Two-year-old Theresa Fregia had a doll bigger than herself to play with today, a gift from the man who plucked her from death at the bottom of the old well beside her grandmother's back porch.

All day Sunday, strangers pulled up at the weatherbeaten, tin-roofed house in this town of 300 in the Big Thicket country of southeast Texas. They sought out Theresa and photographed her where the well used to be. The giant crater the rescuers dug has been filled and smoothed over.

"Oh, she's so excited," said her grandmother, Opal Allen-

ang. "But just like any other child, she didn't realize what it was all about. She just thinks she's having a good time."

Many of the visitors brought presents for the little girl with the big brown eyes — apples, oranges, candy, cookies, a stuffed rabbit.

The gift she liked best was the big doll from Ransom W. Bill Jr. of Houston. In Saturday's early hours, Bill had lowered himself into a rescue shaft parallel to the old well, chinked a hole in the well's casing and pulled Theresa to safety as water welled up and the new hole caved in on them.

Theresa had spent nine hours 28 feet below ground, slipping slowly down the fragile, 10-inch-wide pipe towards four feet of water. Near the end of the vigil, many feared she was dead.

Color our face red!

Occasionally, in the course of keeping more than 3½ million Michigan Bell phones in service, we slip up.

It may be we didn't arrive at the hour and on the day we said we would to install a telephone. Or we promised special telephone service or equipment, only to find it wasn't immediately available. Or we put a Long Distance call on the wrong bill.

If any of these things have happened to you, you're in the small minority. But we apologize just the same.

If your phone service has been perfect, you're in the vast majority.

But color our face red anyway, since we're straining twice as hard to keep your telephone one of the most reliable, trouble-free services you'll ever enjoy.

The club had arranged a very attractive exhibit with the theme, "There's Something for Everyone in 4-H".

Mrs. Waino Bakka, described the garments modeled by Mary and Rita Kaukola, Nancy Linjala, Donna VanDamme, Ellen and Elaine Bakka, Linda Lippens, Carla Lee, Susan Lehto, Sharon and Carol Lippens, Susan Laitinen, Barbara Ahlgren and Carol and Joanne Niemela.

The garments had been evaluated earlier in the week and the following rated as tops in construction: Carol and Joanne Niemela, Sharon Lippens, Susan Laitinen, Nancy Linjala and Donna VanDamme.

The Marquette County Achievement Day will be held in Gwynn on April 23.

Rock and West Rock 4-H clubs joined to put on the program and the lunch served afterward.

Whooping Cough Perils Children

Although whooping cough can be prevented with an effective vaccine, it still remains a serious threat to the health of many unprotected Michigan children. Last year alone there were 653 reported cases of this potentially dangerous disease in the state.

Whooping cough generally strikes children under 10 years of age—and the younger the child, the worse the effect of the disease. The first symptoms appear in one to two weeks after exposure and they are much like a common cold—headache, runny nose and cough. A doctor should be notified when the first symptoms appear.

Once the disease has been diagnosed, the patient should be isolated. This serves the dual purpose of stopping the spread of the disease, and protecting the child against exposure to germs that could cause bronchial pneumonia or other complications.

A day or two after the first symptoms appear, the child will develop a cough that lasts about two weeks. After that massive amounts of mucus are discharged from his throat and bronchial passages, and this accumulation tends to cut off breathing. This causes another, more severe cough, as the child tries to clear his air passages. It becomes so violent that he can't inhale for several minutes.

As if the disease was not bad enough, the side effects can be extremely serious. They range from a hearing loss caused by the child choking on mucus to brain damage from the violent coughing.

Now, what is the most effective way of protecting your child against this disease? Well, it's best to rely on immunization, rather than treatment after it has taken hold. As I said earlier, an effective vaccine exists that will give your child immunity—a vaccine that can be given to an infant when he's only 2-3 months of age.

Basic protection consists of three injections of vaccine one month to six weeks apart, and starting at 2-3 months of age. Then all that is necessary to keep the immunization at its peak is one shot boosters when he is two years old and when he is five.

If you follow this procedure there is very little likelihood that your child will ever fall victim to whooping cough and its side effects.

Dear Folks:

Remember the mudpies we used to make when we were kids? Whatever happened to that old lost art?

Before we all start crying for the good old days and a mom who let us have fun, let's make some more mud pies.

But this time put the mud in the bottom of a vase or bowl and put your artificial flowers in it. Set the vase in the sun, and when it hardens you have a perfect "frog" for your artificial flowers.

You can make it as deep or as shallow as you wish, depending on the size of your vase and flowers.

And when you get tired of the way your flowers are arranged, just wet your mud pie again and rearrange 'em.

I learned another thing when I tried this. If you add a bit of household bleach to the mud it will kill anything in it. After all they DO sell sterilized dirt at garden shops now!

People write and ask how they could sterilize their own soil. I checked and was told to put dry soil in the oven on a cookie sheet at 500 degrees and cook it two hours.

Now don't you laugh, but if you have some perfume or toilet water and you don't like the odor for personal use... mix it in your mud pies to add realism!

The dried soil will hold the odor for weeks.

Dear Heloise:

Save those thin plastic covers that come back with your dry cleaning.

Fold them in half (hanger end to open end) and pin the two open corners with safety pins. Then punch a hole in the middle of the folded side for a hanger hook.

Now you will have a half-length, double-thickness, plastic dust cover for dresses or suits... for free.

If they get dusty, just wipe them off with a damp rag.

Sure keeps dust marks off the shoulders of your clothing.

Dear Heloise:

I keep a dish drainer under the sink in which I stand pot lids, serving trays and large cake dishes.

In the silver drainer I put soap pads and small cleaning brushes.

This has been a big help in storing bulky or unusually small articles.

Personality Picks Sport

By Lee Smits

Ed Arnett of Chelsea presents an interesting subject for serious study — the different psychological aptitudes called for by various kinds of sport.

A column in the Chelsea Standard on the intellectual requirements of icefishing prompted a letter from Arnett in which he said:

"You know, of course, that Chelsea is well surrounded with lakes, so fishing through the ice is not exactly unheard of in these parts.

"On days when cooperation on the fish side is low (this has been heard of) some might call it a test of endurance or possibly character.

With such a source of data so near one of our major universities, someone should have thought of the ice fisherman as a worthy subject for psychological study, which could be of great help to the experts changed with recreational planning.

"There must be some way the personality test could be applied to the backpack camping, my favorite outdoor activity. I would like to see testing applied to the popularization of hiking vacations."

Since there seems to be no literature available on the psychology of backpack camping, we can only indulge in random speculation about the personality best suited to this pastime.

For the gregarious extrovert, duck shooting is recommended. Duck hunters customarily shoot in pairs. In the inevitable interludes between shots they tell stories.

Boat - fishing, like duck hunting, is for companionable people, although it can be, and is, carried on by solitaires.

Fly - fishing is for introverts. Deer - hunting is carried on by a large variety of psychological types. The true still - hunter, deer - stalker, deer - tracker, has a hard time getting away from poker - players and high-ball enthusiasts. A serious deer hunter wants to be in bed at an early hour, up and out an hour before dawn.

Most deer killed in Michigan are taken by sitters - hunters who can sit and sit, watching a runway, enduring cold and boredom, yet continuously alert. Although no data is available, it is fair to suppose that a successful ice fisherman has the makings of a successful deer-sitter.

The small game hunter, seeking pheasant, grouse, quail, cottontail, should be, first of all, a devout appreciator of dogs. Dog work is the best part of upland game hunting in America. A fair set of legs is helpful. Certainly capable legs are needed for trailing after hounds, hunting bear, bobcat, fox, although dog appreciation is of course the prime requisite. This means that a typical backpacking vacationer would be beyond the first surging eagerness of youth. Sadly enough, it is when a man's legs begin to give out that he becomes fully aware of nature's wonders, the joys of solitary contemplation.

Half Of India's Food Wasted

ROME (AP) — Half the food produced in India is wasted by rats, rot, birds and insects, the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization reports. It estimates the world average loss of food to pests is at least 20 per cent. The wastage is greatest in regions of Asia, Africa and Latin America where hunger already is the worst.

Even at 20 per cent the loss means this: where there should be enough food for five persons to eat, one will starve. Or, if the available food is divided equally, all five will be undernourished.

When the loss reaches 50 per cent the results become starkly tragic.

The estimate of India's loss was given to the FAO regional conference for the Far East by the Indian government.

That loss, in financial terms,

Electrical License Date Is Extended

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has signed into law a bill extending the deadline for electrical contractors to qualify for a state license without examination until Dec. 31, 1967. Under the so-called "grandfather clause," contractors in communities of less than 5,000 population who have been regularly engaged in electrical work and who meet minimum requirements can qualify for a license without examination.

is equal to about twice India's national budget.

Part of the loss comes while crops are still in the fields, but the greatest waste is during storage and transport after the harvest.

Even in the United States, where food protection and storage systems are highly advanced, rats alone destroy 5.3 million tons of grain a year, FAO reported. That, however, is only about three per cent of U.S. production.

More than 250 workers in the Upper Peninsula are currently enrolled or have completed training in the UPJAT On-the-Job Training program. Seventy per cent of these workers were unemployed and 30 per cent were underemployed before beginning the training program which is administered by Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, and the Marquette Catholic Diocese. The $180,000 contract made to UPJAT last June is designed to train or re-train 300 workers for more skilled positions in the labor force. The workers are located in about 20 different communities scattered through a dozen U.P. counties. More than 60 companies and businesses are involved in the program.

OJT program funds are used to reimburse employers for their training costs. It does not pay for wages, materials or equipment. Each worker has been trained at an approximate cost of $300.

Half Are Drop-Outs

The program is under the direction of John T. McCarthy, Sault Ste. Marie. A. F. Blome, Crystal Falls, serves as the OJT program coordinator for the western half of the U.P.

McCarthy points out that about half of the trainees are high school drop-outs who do not have sufficient training skills to meet the demands of today's labor market. Two-thirds of the trainees are married, and the same percentage are primary wage earners for their families.

The male-female ratio for trainees is about even and two-thirds are in their twenties. The remainder of OJT program trainees range in age from late teens to over 50 years old.

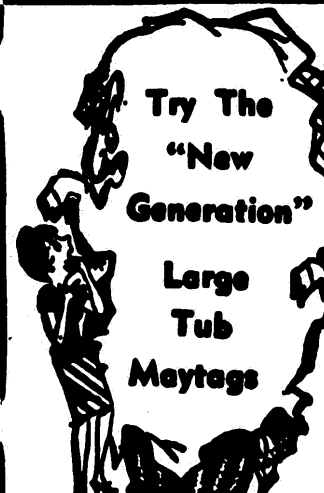

The average training program runs from 16-26 weeks, depending upon the complexity of the skills being taught.

Train Or Update

Employers taking part in the program can either train new employees or update the skills of present workers. By doing the training himself under regular work conditions in his own plant, the employer produces workers who know his business, procedures and policies.

The largest contract to date was signed with Eaton, Yale & Towne of Gladstone in which 24 men and women are being trained as production machine operators, lathe operators and job setters over a 20-week training period.

In some cases the employer has hired an instructor to teach employees enrolled in the OJT program. The employer pays the instructor himself out of the training allowance agreed to in the OJT contract. For example, five men are being trained by an electronics technician in a Sault Ste. Marie firm to learn the skills involved in radio and TV repair work.

Heavy Traffic Jams Detroit Phone Circuits

DETROIT (AP) — More and more telephone users are getting "beep-beep-beep" instead of "ring-ring-ring" when they call in the Detroit metropolitan area. Why?

Heavy traffic is jamming the circuits in the nation's fifth largest city.

Demand for service has outdistanced the company's plans for expanding facilities, and despite the addition of some trunk lines, "We're still considerably short of the trend," said one official of Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

"Interstate toll calls increased more in Michigan last year than in any other state in the Bell System," said John S. North, general traffic manager for the company. "People are using telephones more than we could possibly anticipate."

"In Detroit alone we're handling an average of 12,000,000 calls a day. Last year we ran about 11,000,000."

How can a caller tell when the trunk line he is on is overloaded with calls?

If you hear a fast "beep-beep" when you dial a number that means the circuits are tied up between you and the party you are calling. The "beep-beep" is faster than the busy signal.

If you have to wait a long time before getting a dial tone when making a call, that means the trunk line is being fully used and can't handle any more calls.

"We're putting in a billion feet of wire a month across the state," said Miles Weiler, Michigan Bell's plant extension engineer. "More than half of that is going right into the metropolitan area."

Weiler said there are 100,000 telephone trunk lines in the area, and the company had planned a five per cent increase a year on the basis of past experience.

Sawmill Training

In the western part of the U.P. an unemployed father of seven children on the welfare rolls is enrolled in a 20-week training program under OJT to train him to become a machinist. Previously, his lack of skills made it impossible to obtain a full-time job.

Another employee being trained under OJT at a Newberry sawmill progressed so rapidly in his skills, he was made night shift foreman upon completion of his training. His wages increased $.57 per hour during the 12-week training period.

Job skills being taught in the OJT program range from those of bookkeeper, clerk-typist, printer or welder to waiters, tail edgemen, or power barter operator. A variety of skilled and semi-skilled workers are joining the U.P. labor market as a direct result of the program.

"We cooperate with many other agencies and programs in the area," said McCarthy. "Referrals come to us from the Community Action Agencies, Title V program and we expect them from the new Neighborhood Youth Corps program. All our trainees are screened by the Michigan Employment Security Commission."

Flying Maroons Win Title

Pat Miller Menominee Standout With 28 Points In Final Clash

EAST LANSING (AP) — Pat Miller plunked in 28 points to mastermind Menominee to the State High School Class B Championship with a 63-59 come-from-behind win over Willow Run.

The Maroons, first team to fly down to the title fights at Michigan State's Jenison Fieldhouse, were behind 35-31 at the half but picked up steam when John Thomas, chunky star of the Willow Run Flyers, was kept out of most of the second half.

Thomas, a 5-8 sharpshooter, picked up 19 points in the first half. He was red hot in the second period, hitting five in a row from the floor.

But Thomas also picked up four fouls in the first half and didn't go back in the game until only 3:12 was remaining. He ended up with 22 points — far below his 35 point production when the Flyers knocked out defending Class B titlist Grand Rapids Eastern 77-76 in the Friday night semifinal.

The Maroons from the Upper Peninsula kept the game tight in the first half and had an 18-16 edge at the end of the first quarter.

Even without Thomas, Willow Run put on a scoring spree to open the second half, at one point having a 39-31 advantage. Miller hit eight field goals in 17 tries for his point production and the closely guarded Maroon star also was almost perfect at the free throw line, hitting 12 of 14.

Bill Jones with 11 points and Dewey Bellisle with 10 were the only other double figure men for the invaders from the Upper Peninsula.

Don Stewart was the best backup man for Thomas, hitting seven buckets for Willow Run.

Menominee had a sharp eye, hitting 43 per cent from the floor to only 29 for the over-eager Flyers.

The last time an Upper Peninsula team took home the Class B crown was when Negaunee was the winner in 1957. Menominee finished with a flurry of free throws in the final seconds to stop a Willow Run surge. Dave Haglund hit both ends of a 1-and-1 with 1:43 to go, giving the Maroons a 59-56 cushion.

Willow Run's John Thomas was fouled but missed the first of his 1-and-1 opportunity. The downstate star was fouled again and pumped in both ends of a two-shot opportunity to make it 58-58 with 59 seconds to go.

Willow Run threw a full court press on the Maroons and stole the ball with 30 seconds to go, but Thomas missed the target with a short jumper. Miller rebounded for the Maroons and was fouled by Thomas. The Menominee ace put his team out of reach with a brace of gift tosses, making it 61-58 with 24 seconds left.

Thomas narrowed it to 61-59 when he was fouled by Miller with 19 seconds left but sub Bob Johnson came through for Menominee with two more free throws with seven seconds to go.

Ewen's Bulldogs Fail In Bid For D Honors

EAST LANSING (AP) — Menominee High may have set a style in flying to the Class B state high school basketball championship.

The Maroons from the extreme western Upper Peninsula flew to the state capital Friday for the windup of the 42nd annual schoolboy cage windup. The airplane trip, first ever for a tournament, left Menominee well rested for a couple of tough games.

The Maroons upended favored Lansing O'Rafferty on St. Patrick's Day in the semifinals and then won the championship with a 63-59 victory over Willow Run Saturday night.

Mount Pleasant Sacred Heart and Flint St. Matthew added undefeated basketball seasons to perfect 9-0 football season in sweeping to respective Class C and D championships.

Sacred Hart, 26-0, outmanned Detroit All Saints 66-53 and St. Matthew contained Ewen's 6-foot-8 Terry Conrad to win in Class D by a 75-67 score.

Menominee was the only UP team to bring home a championship. Wakefield was eliminated 56-55 by Sacred Heart in the C semifinals and Ewen, tired from a 71-45, four-overtime victory over Adrian Catholic Central in the D semis, wilted under St. Matthew's fast break.

Pershing Wins, Mentor Named Coach Of Year

EAST LANSING (AP) — Will Robinson, a man two generations removed from slavery, related today and savored a couple of honors any basketball coach would be proud to hold.

His Detroit Pershing team won the state Class A basketball title with an awesome 90-68 victory over gummy Flint Central Saturday night, a few hours after the Michigan High School Coaches' Association named Robinson Coach-of-the-Year.

"This has to be the highlight of my career," said Robinson, a veteran of 24 years in Detroit Public Schools and the first Negro to be selected top coach by the association.

"Remember gentlemen," he told fellow coaches and officials at the award banquet, "I'm just two generations removed from slavery."

Houston Coach Says Bruins Heading For Fall

By The Associated Press

Guy Lewis still thinks UCLA is headed for a fall, but the Houston basketball coach isn't sure his Cougars are mean enough to push the Bruins off their summit perch.

"We lack the killer instinct, and I don't know if that will be fatal against UCLA or not," Lewis said Sunday as the Cougars began preparing for their NCAA tournament date with the unbeaten, top-ranked Bruins Friday night.

The second half of the semifinal doubleheader at Louisville, Ky., pits North Carolina's slick young Tar Heels against surprising Dayton.

Lewis, who predicted UCLA "will get beat" before his club earned the task of confronting the Bruins and 7-foot-1 Lew Alcindor, could promise only one thing Sunday: Houston won't settle for a standoff.

"I haven't decided how we'll play them," he said, "but we definitely won't try any control game on them. We don't even practice a delay. We think we have enough talent to get the ball in the hole against any team."

Elvin (Big E) Hayes heads Houston's talent parade and Lewis hopes the 6-foot-8 pivotman, whose 31 points triggered the Cougars' 83-75 victory over Southern Methodist in last Saturday night's NCAA Midwest regional final, will prove the Big Equalizer against UCLA prodigy Alcindor.

Big Lew poured in 38 points as the Bruins ousted University of Pacific 80-64 in the Far West regional for their 28th straight victory.

"Hayes is even greater this season because he has confidence in his shooting, from anywhere on the court," Lewis said. "He really took charge in the closing minutes against SMU."

The Houston All-America scored 20 points in the second half, most of them from outside, to offset a furious SMU rally that wiped out a 14-point deficit.

The Mustangs tied the score 72-72 with a 15-3 burst, but Hayes' bucket with :57 remaining sent Houston ahead 76-73 and the nationally seventh-ranked Cougars hung on for their 24th victory in 27 starts.

Fourth-ranked North Carolina, 26-4, gained the semifinals by whipping No. 9 Boston College 96-80 behind Bob Lewis' 31 points in the East regional and unranked Dayton, 24-5, outlasted Virginia Tech in overtime 71-66 for the Mid East crown.

Escanaba Robinson's Furniture went down to defeat, 52-25, to Hermansville Stihl Saws. Dooley led the winners with 16 points, Bizeau the losers with 10.

The Escanaba Jets were silenced by Manistique Chindits in another Sunday night headliner. Leading the Manistique unit were Eric Blomquist with 20 points, Seb Rubick 19, Jon Cameron 13 and Ron Rubick 10. Frank Trotter riddled the nets with 23 points while Jim Shandony tallied 18 and Dave Nyquist 17 for the Jets.

Ron Povolo, one of Hermansville High School's all time scoring greats, returned to the scene of his many prep triumphs to score 29 points as the Spalding Rubick All Stars downed Daggett, 79-54. Cliff Perras, former Carney star, chipped in with 23 for the winners.

The Garden quint jumped out to an early lead and looked like a sure winner through three quarters of its game against the Norway team which is made up of graduating players from this year's Norway prep team. Garden led by a 14-6 margin at the end of the first quarter and 28-15 at halftime.

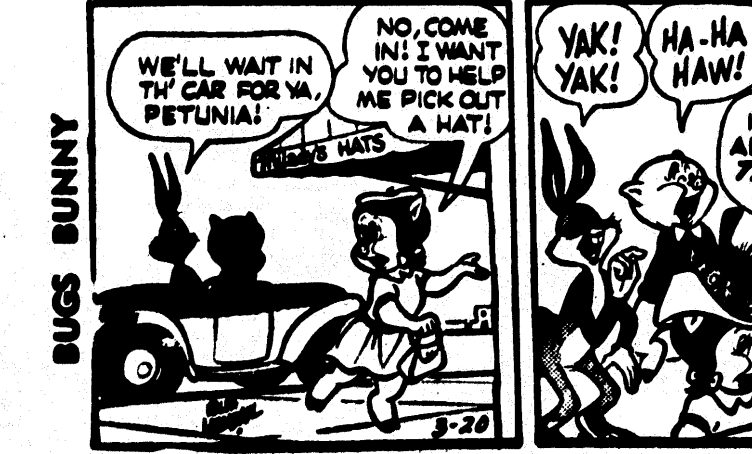

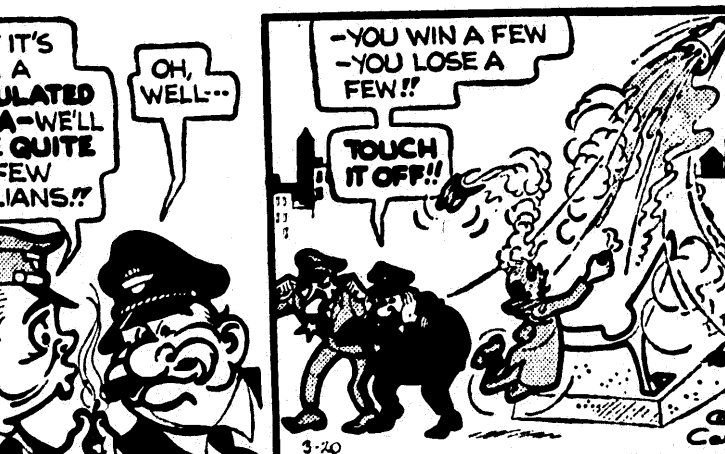

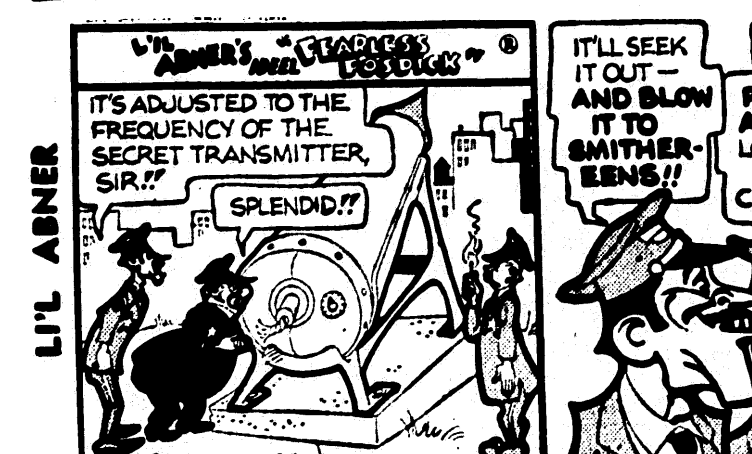

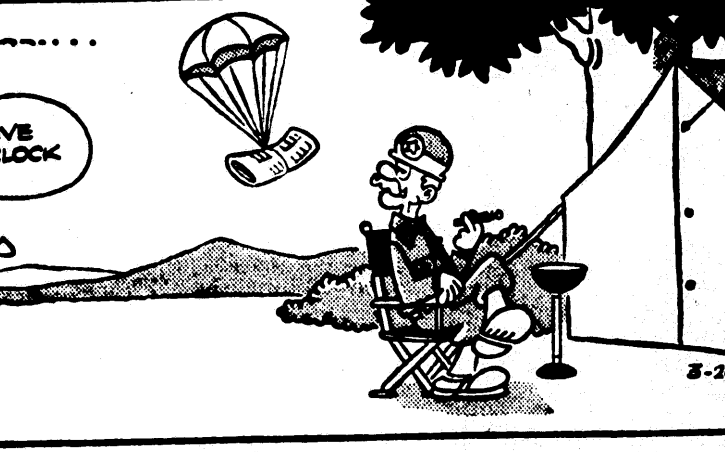

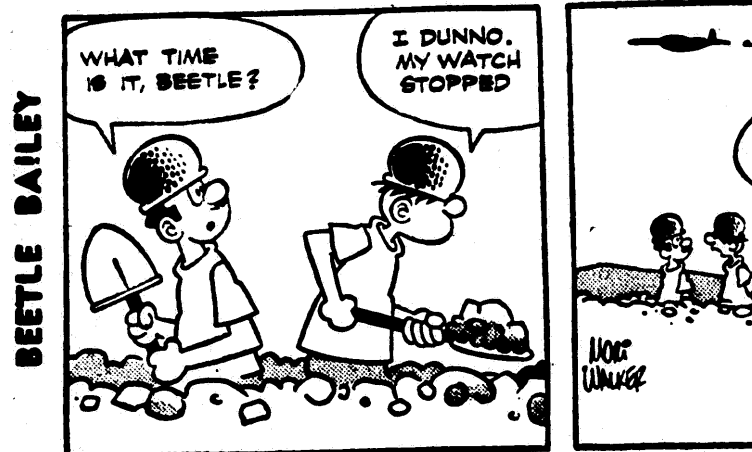

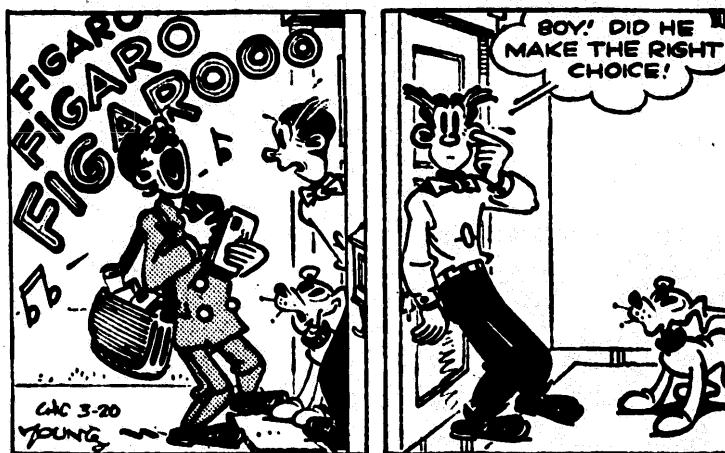

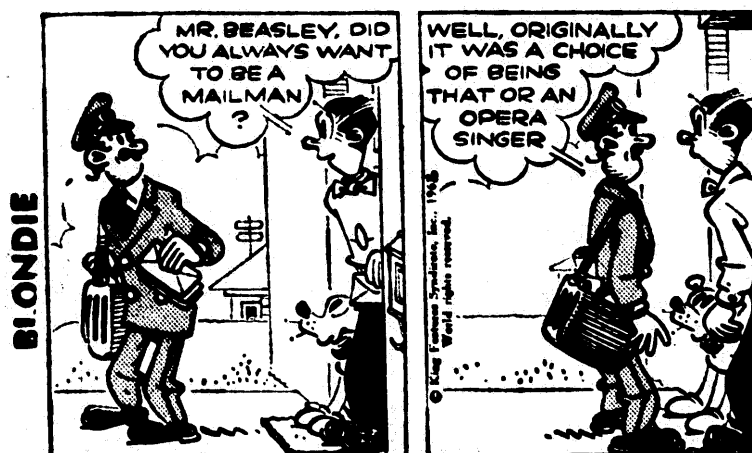

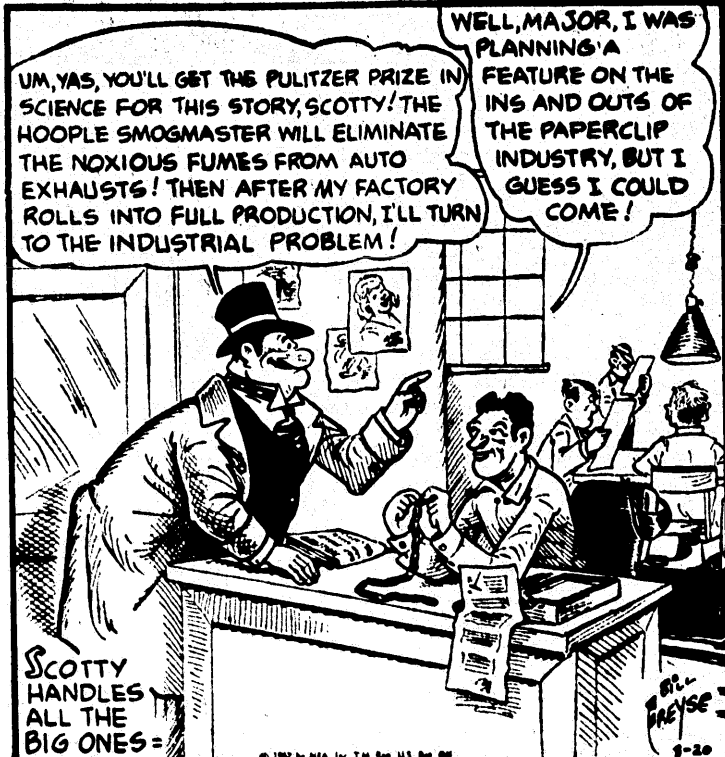

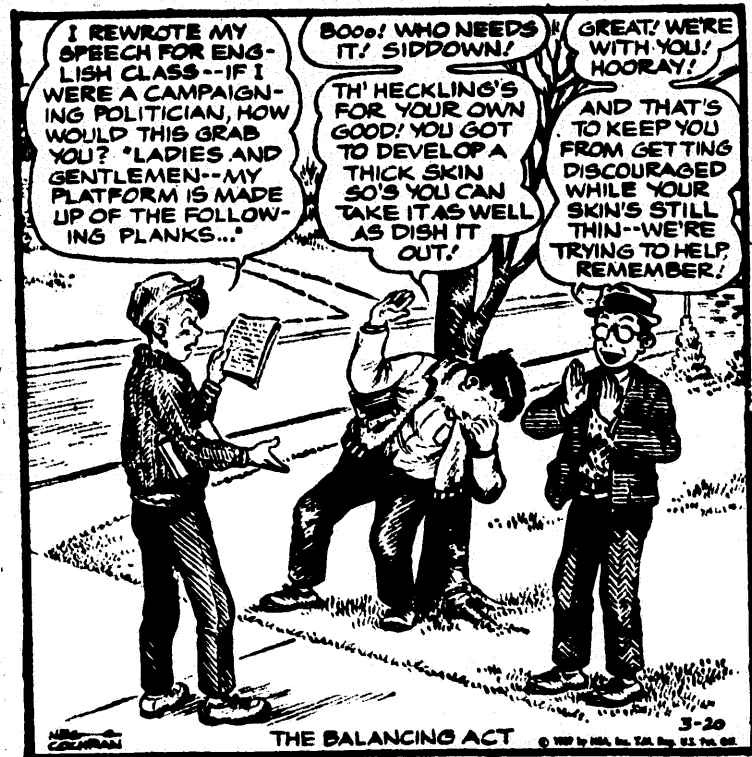

The upstart Knights narrowed their deficit to 34-29 entering the final quarter and caught the Garden champs in the closing minutes of action.

Lee Potvin and Don St. John teamed up for 25 of Garden's points while Louis Lauzon added six, Wally Morin four and Bill Derousha two. Ted Salina paced Norway with 14.

Tournament action will resume Tuesday night with five games on tap, beginning at 6:30. Class B teams will continue to battle it out Wednesday and Thursday nights with

Illinois Coaches Resign In Final Slush Fund Act

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois' three scandal-involved coaches reluctantly resigned Sunday, 24 hours after the Big Ten issued an ultimatum that they be fired or the university face indefinite suspension from the conference.

The action by football Coach Pete Elliott, basketball Coach Harry Combes and assistant Howie Braun ended a three-month ordeal stemming from a $21,000 athletic slush fund.

Dr. David D. Henry, university president, who revealed the existence of the fund to the Big Ten and fought to the end to save the jobs of the coaches, accepted the resignations.

On Saturday, Dr. Henry lost his final round in an attempt to show cause why the coaches should not be fired. The faculty representatives told Illinois to fire the coaches by Tuesday or face indefinite suspension from the conference.

The scandal broke in December when assistant athletic director Mel Brewer, bypassed for the athletic directorship which had opened with the Dec. 1 resignation of Doug Mills, revealed to Dr. Henry the existence of the fund.

Dr. Henry took the matter to the Big Ten and the athletic directors met and decided Illinois must fire the three or show cause why its membership should not be suspended or terminated.

Illinois appealed on March 3 to the faculty representatives who came to the same decision as that of the athletic directors. Illinois' "show cause" appeal Saturday also failed and the faculty group issued its Tuesday-or-else mandate.

Dr. Henry said: "The Board of Directors of the Athletic Association have recommended and I have approved the honoring of existing contracts with the coaches which will terminate Aug. 31, 1967. Their faculty status in the College of Physical Education (part time assignments) is not affected."

Elliott, 42, has been at Illinois seven years. Combes, 51, concluded his 20th season at Illinois, and Braun, 50, has been Combes' assistant for 2 years.

The three coaches issued a joint statement Sunday in which they charged the 'Big Ten fired us.'

"It is apparent to everyone that the commissioner, athletic directors and faculty representatives of the Western Conference (Big Ten) have 'fired us.' We are therefore reluctantly stepping down from our respective coaching responsibilities at this time rather than to allow the conference to unjustly force the University of Illinois to act on an impossible situation. We emphatically believe that the final decision in this matter must be made by the conference rather than the University and consider the announcement of March 18, 1967, as the final decision."

In Chicago, Commissioner Reed refused to comment on the resignations other than to say the case is closed as far as the Big Ten is concerned and no further penalties by the conference are contemplated.

In addition to the ouster of the coaches, five athletes were declared permanently ineligible for participating in the fund, which made illegal payments of $15 a month to $50 a month. Several players left school and three others were handed one-year suspensions from competition.

Wing Playoff Hopes Splinter-Thin After 6-5 Sunday Setback

DETROIT (AP)—Their playoff prospects reduced to a splinter-thin hope, the Detroit Red Wings began a three-day respite from the National Hockey League wars today, wallowing in injuries, ineptness and fifth place.

Detroit blew a 4-1 first-period lead in dropping a 6-5 decision to the hustling Toronto Maple Leafs Sunday afternoon.

The defeat, combined with Montreal's 4-4 tie with Chicago, left Detroit 11 points behind the Canadiens in a waning battle for the fourth Stanley Cup playoff berth.

In the other NHL game, New York beat Boston 3-1 to clinch its first playoff berth in five years. The Red Wings play New York on Detroit ice Thursday.

The Red Wings and Montreal each have six games to play and Detroit would have to win six while the Canadiens lose six to gain a tie for fourth place. In that event, Detroit would make the playoffs with more victories.

Manager-Coach Sid Abel was somewhat resigned after Toronto scored four goals in the final period to overtake Detroit.

"We're going nowhere and they've got second place to fight for," said Abel.

Toronto and New York are tied for second with 67 points each.

"We stopped checking them after the first period," said Abel. "You can't let them keep coming at you like that and expect to win."

Detroit outshot Toronto 13-9 in the first period as Gordie Howe scored twice, and Alex Delvecchio and Floyd Smith once each.

But the Wings got only 15 shots on former teammate Terry Sawchuk in the final two stanzas while Toronto bombarded rookie Detroit defenseman George Gardner with 28 shots.

Gardner, shellshocked from the barrage, gave up four goals in the final period.

Wickersham Pulls Boner As Red Sox Nip Tigers In Exhibition Action

WICKERSHAM, Fla. (AP)—Baseball is supposed to be a thinking man's game, but Detroit Tiger pitcher Dave Wickersham wasn't thinking, he was hearing voices.

Wickersham deliberately let a popped bunt fall in front of him Sunday, then picked up the ball and threw to first base, letting the winning run score from third and the Boston Red Sox beat the Tigers 7-6.

The loss ended Detroit's Grapefruit League record at 5-5. With the Tigers ahead 6-5 going into the last of the ninth, Wickersham struck out Joe Foy, George Scott singled to right, Russ Gibson singled to center and George Thomas singled past third, scoring Scott and tying the game.

Wickersham walked Jose Tartabull deliberately to make possible a double play at any base. Bob Tillman pinch hit for winning pitcher Jose Santiago and popped a bunt between Wickersham and the third base line. Gibson had started for home but pulled up as he saw Wickersham could catch it.

Then Wickersham spread his arms and let the ball fall, pounced on it and threw to first while Gibson dug for home with the winning run.

Wickersham looked stunned for a minute, then trudged off the field with his head down.

Later, in the clubhouse, he said, "I thought I heard someone yelling 'let it go, let it go, let it go.'"

"It was one of the most embarrassing things I've ever done in my life," he said. "I don't have any excuse. I should be hiding somewhere."

Tiger Manager Mayo Smith said, "Really and truly, I don't know why he did it. He was completely blank. I'm just glad it happened in an exhibition game. If it had been the regular season, I don't know."

Joe Sparrma started for Detroit and had control problems, especially with his curve. Boston jumped on him for three runs in the first, two of them coming on a single by Thomas. Detroit got one back in the second on an error, two walks and an infield out.

The Tigers got another in the top of the fourth on a homer by Ray Oyler.

Boston scored two runs in the fourth on a walk and three singles, all off Wickersham. Detroit picked up one run in the fifth on an error, a walk, an infield out and a single by Jim Northrup.

In the seventh Norm Cash, Al Kaline and Willie Horton singled to load the bases for the Tigers. An error on Northrup's grounder let Cash score. Gates Brown tied it with a wind-blown single to right and Oyler hit a long sacrifice fly to put Detroit ahead.

"I wanted to drive that run in pretty bad," said Oyler, who has been criticized as "good glove, no hit."

But the three-run rally only set the stage for Wickersham's boner.

Memorial Library To Karl Marx Is Saved In London

LONDON (AP) - London's Karl Marx Memorial Library is to be preserved as a historical monument despite objections from citizens groups.

The run - down, 230-year-old building at Clerkenwell Green has been saved through a preservation order confirmed by the Ministry of Housing and Local Government.

Local groups felt the building was an eyesore that could be torn down and the site turned into a park and playground.

Marx worked in the building that houses many of his original writings. Lenin worked there for a time. The building also has been used as headquarters of radical political groups.

The Greater London Council, which overrode local objections, is to see that the library's trustees renovate the building and make it more attractive.

Cemetery Body Members Named

LANSING (AP) - Gov. George Romney has announced the appointment of the Rev. William J. Koenigsnecht of Lansing, Frank F. Loomis of Benton Harbor, Andrew E. Merrell of Royal Oak and William J. Burke of Grand Rapids to the new State Cemetery Commission. A fifth member will be named later, Romney said.

Bobbies Told To Eye Girls' Legs

LONDON (AP) - Policemen in the Golden Green district of north London have been told to keep an eye on girls' legs in case they're wearing satin sheen stockings of a certain type. Thousands of pairs of the stockings, which are not yet on the market, were stolen from a local factory recently.

A U. S. five-cent piece is 75 per cent copper and 25 per cent nickel.

In Memoriam

Maki

In loving memory of my dear wife and our dear mother Jannie Maki who passed away one year ago today, March 20, 1966.

The sun and moon are shining. On a lone and silent grave. Beneath lies one we dearly loved. But whom we could not save. Time may ease the sorrowing hearts. Time may make the wounds less sore. But time will never stop the longing. Though God has you in his keeping. We still have you in our hearts.

Small Businessmen Aided By Guidance

This article about the U.P. Small Business Development Center features three loanees: George Glenn, an Eckerman logger, Mrs. Gertrude Mitchell, operator of the Mitchell Home for the Aged in McMillan; and Thomas Jean, Iron River machinist.

National statistics show that about 50 per cent of the nation's small businesses fail because of financial or management problems. To counteract this situation in the Upper Peninsula, the U.P. Small Business Development Center offers management assistance and counseling through their three management consultants and Coordinator - Director George Rusch, and the Small Business Development Center makes loans to qualified businesses.

George Glenn, a 56-year-old Eckerman logger who operates the Glenn Pulp Co., is one of the SBA loan recipients.

A year ago Glenn needed capital to purchase logging equipment and to pay his work force.

Through Mrs. Dorothy Scott, Community Action field representative in Eckerman, Glenn found out about the small business loan program. SBDC Consultant Verner Johnson, who covers the eastern U. P. counties, helped Glenn secure a loan to meet these debts and build his logging business.

"I needed some money to consolidate my debts," Glenn said. "Without the loan I never would have made it."

Hires In Canada

Today Glenn and his crew of eight men are cutting veneer, lumber logs and hardwood pulp on the 80 acres of land he owns and 139 adjoining acreage on which he holds a stumpage lease.

His work force numbers between 8 and 13, depending on available manpower and weather conditions.

"I try to hire local men first and when I can't find any more, I go to Canada and bring others here," Glenn said.

A native of Greenup County, Kentucky, Glenn moved to the U. P. in 1932. He's held numerous jobs in construction and business but has always gone back to logging.

"When you're just getting started in business you have to work around the clock," said Glenn who puts in a 12 to 14 hour day. "Along with my regular work, I have to plow and maintain 12 miles of roads in the winter and build temporary bridges so we can get our crew into isolated areas for cutting."

Need Tractors

Glenn and his wife of 27 years, Katherine, of Akron, Ohio, recently purchased 5 tractors and moved them to their property. They are refinishing and equipping them and hope to have them open this summer as tourist cabins. Mrs. Glenn's favorite construction project now, though, is a new home her husband is building alongside the cabins.

Besides the problem of long hours and securing a dependable work force, Glenn has transportation problems.

"We need a trucking firm in this area to get out the logs before the breakup. Every year we battle the calendar. We stand to lose a lot of money if the logs aren't brought out on time," he said.

Home For Aged

Another small business loan recipient who puts in long hours around the clock to maintain her business is 54-year-old Mrs. Gertrude Mitchell of rural McMillan who, along with her husband, Emanuel, operates the Mitchell Home for the Aged.

In 1930, Mitchell retired from his watch repair business in Munising because of poor health. Mrs. Mitchell then began a 15 year career in nursing care for the aged.

Three years ago, the Mitchells decided to move to the country. They found a large nine room white farm house near McMillan which was being used as a home for elderly people and Mrs. Mitchell began working as a nurse in the home.

"When the owner died, I was afraid the house would be sold out from under me," Mrs. Mitchell said. "But I got a small business loan last November so I could buy the home myself."

The house now provides a home for her and her husband who needs medical care, and they receive a small steady income from the three elderly patients in their care.

The Mitchell "family" now consists of two elderly men who are on county referral, a woman who was previously living alone and could no longer care for herself, and a large friendly black and white dog named Mike.

Around the clock work is not uncommon for another SBA loan recipient, 28-year-old Iron River businessman Thomas Jean who owns and operates the Lake States Engineering firm. The night before this reporter visited Jean's plant, he and his two-man crew worked a 22 hour day, completing a repair job for a road construction company.

Jean's business started in his own garage with a lathe he bought for a hobby.

"It wasn't long before the phone got busy and I was in business," Jean said. "It hasn't stopped ringing yet."

Jean's metal business grew so rapidly, he needed a small business loan to purchase more machinery and building materials to construct a new plant. SBDC Consultant Paul Harkonen helped Jean process the loan and when it came through last August, Jean had already started construction on his new 36 x 50 foot concrete block metal working shop.

"We started work here in the new plant in late November," said Jean, "just as soon as we had the roof on."

Bumper Brochure

Much of Jean's work includes rebuilding machine parts or making small machine parts for U. P. manufacturers. Sometime ago he also designed a bumper for a pick-up truck and the sales are still coming in on this item.

"Whenever I'm driving along and I see a pick-up without a bumper, I stop and toss one of my bumper brochures into the front seat of the truck," Jean said. "I've gotten a lot of business that way."

Jean has two full time men working for him now and they put in 60 hours of work a week. When you're after quality and fast delivery, the metal worker said, you have to put in a lot of hours.

The father of two small children, ages four and six, Jean was named Businessman of the Year in 1966 by the Iron River

They Need Your Gift.

April Is Cancer Control Month

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has issued a half dozen proclamations, naming April as both Cancer Control Month and Better Record-Keeping Month, April 14 as Pan American Day and April 9-15 as Pan American Week, April 17-22 as Michigan Coin Week, April 24 as Odd Fellows Day and May 7-13 as Mental Health Week.

Jaycees in recognition of developing local industry.

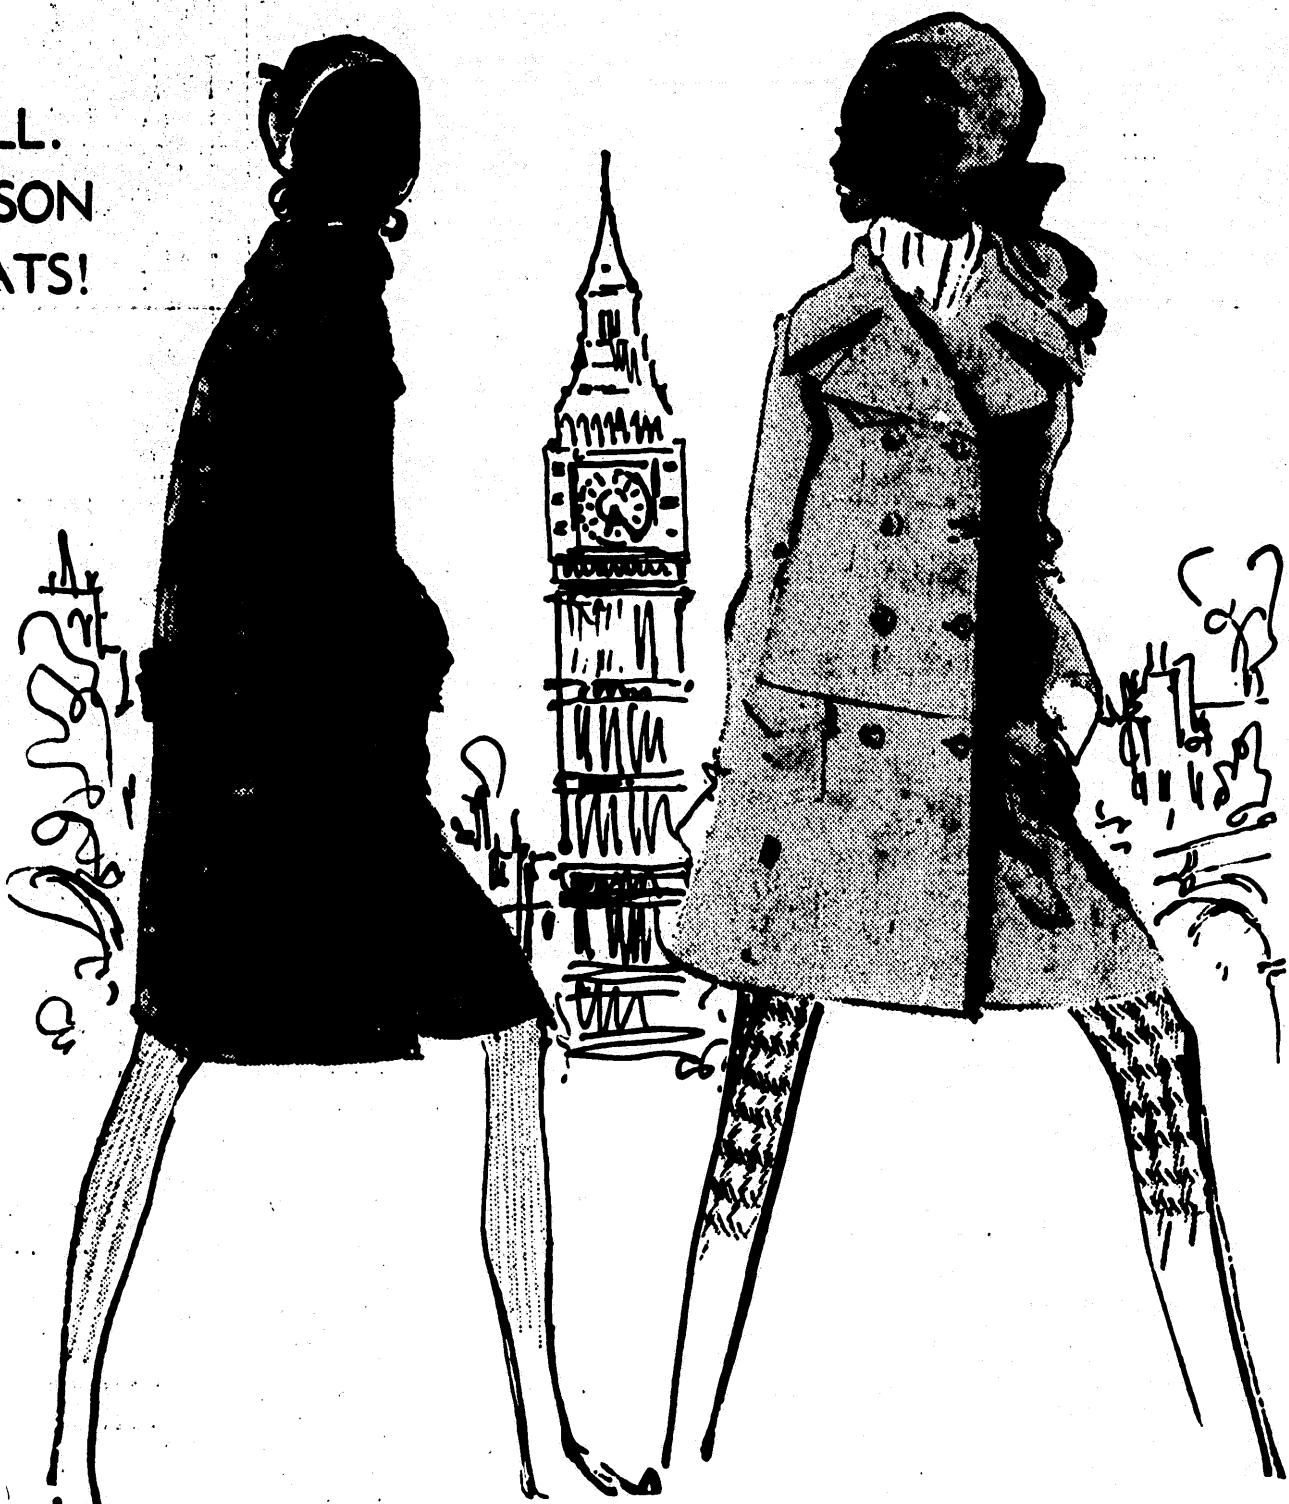

Like many small businessmen who put in long hours, Jean still finds time to serve his community in a number of ways. On his factory bulletin board hangs a thank you note from the congregation of an Iron River church. It seems that Jean, in one of his "spare" moments, took time to repair, without cost, the cross atop the local church.
